All employees assist in overall kitchen and restaurant cleanliness, Participants will be using cleaning chemicals. For example; the morning shift might begin at 10:30 AM and start to prepare (prep) food for the day and after prep is finished participants might either run the dishwasher, expedite food or cook on the line. In this role, participants will be responsible for much of the food production in the kitchen and will assist the cook(s) to prepare dishes. Each line cook is typically assigned a place on the assembly line, such as the grill, stove or pizza prep area, and is responsible for cooking that specific portion of the meal. Job duties include assisting cooks in cutting, precooking and marinating food as well as keeping the kitchen clean and operational. Participants in this position must possess basic cooking skills and will be operating a variety of food service equipment, including knives, pots and pans, ovens and grills and food processors. As the restaurant operates in a team environment, participants will be highly engaged with the full staff and guests.
